What are your children doing online?

Their childhoods may be very different from yours
because of the digital playground that is available to them.
Whilst this digital playground affords them a whole new set of opportunities it also brings its own new set of risks.

Children have greater access to screens and the internet than ever before.

But this means the internet has greater access to children than ever before.

The way children interact with what they see online has changed in recent years and continues to change as they grow older.

Children gain independence with technology and are monitored less as they grow up, this can lead to increased online risks.

Among 8-17s who said someone had been 'nasty or hurtful' to them in the past 12 months, said it happened via...

23% who agreed to answer the question have personally experienced something nasty/hurtful to them in the past 12 months

The risks children face may start with nasty/hurtful comments via online spaces but can quickly escalate into something more serious such as social media influence, inappropriate or disturbing content, or even radical and extreme ideologies.

Internet safety risks for school-age children

There are 4 main kinds of internet safety risks for children.

Content Risks

Illegal, inappropriate, harmful, e.g. Fake news, deep fake images, racism, misogyny, self-harm, extremism, pornography.

Contact Risks

Bullying, grooming, sexual harassment, exploitation, influencing, 'end-to-end encryption.

Conduct Risks

Acting in ways that might hurt others or being victims of this behaviour—privacy, digital footprint, health and wellbeing, nudes and semi-nudes, copyright and live streaming.

Contract Risks

Contracts, membership agreements, or terms and conditions that they aren't aware of or don't understand. Online gambling, advertising, phishing scams, financial scams and micro-transactions.

Personal Internet Filter Test

Children, particularly younger children, can be bothered by things they see online, and filters can be a helpful tool in reducing the chances of coming across something upsetting.

Managing access to online content is very much an art and whilst no filter or parental controls tool is 100% effective, this utility will help you test the main components of any filtering or parental controls (if they are active) on your Broadband or mobile connection.

All the major Broadband and mobile operators provide filtering or parental controls. To find out more about these including instructions on activating them can be found on the Internet Matters website.
